A BRIDE IN COURT.-John, alias Nep, Penn, the present Corporation dog catcher, procured a license Thursday last to get married to Elizabeth King. While the couple were being married last night at the parsonage of Rev. Mr. Sharp, Geo. Lucas, an ex-dog catcher, a claimant to the hand of the King woman, carried off the bride's trunk, which contained the newly made up garments. When the loving couple found, on their return home, a ler the ceremony, that the trunk was gone a search was instituted, which led to the discovery of the missing bridal trousseau in the house of Virginia Nelson colored, where it had been secretd by Lucas. Penn and his bride swore out a warrant against Lucas, charging him with the larceny of the trunk, and the case came up before the Mayor this morning in the presence of a large number of spectators. The blushing bride testified to the carrying off of the trunk by Lucas, but said that Lucas leased Lucas upon the payment of the costs of the case, and required the pride to return the articles presented her by Lucas before her marriage. Penn objected but the trank was opened and the presents— two small looking glasses—returned to the jilted Lucas. The bride and groom, carry-ing with them the trunk, then left the Mayor's office apparently happy.
